By WHITNEY LEGGETT
CV&T News Editor

For 90 years the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis Club has been serving the people of Estill County. The club provides and contributes to a number of services and opportunities for the community, including the Kiwanis Baseball and Softball leagues, the Estill County Community Food Bank, foster kids’ Christmas and many more. One way the club goes about funding programs and opportunities is the annual radio/TV auction. This year’s auction, the 11th for the organization, will be Saturday, Oct. 6 at the Estill

County Middle School gym. Bidding begins at 9 a.m. and the auction closes at 2 p.m. The auction is broadcast live on Irvine Cable Television channel eight and WIRV 1550. As he does every year, Bunt Gross has donated a car to be auctioned for the event. The 2006 black Chevy Malibu is parked on the courthouse lawn for potential bidders to see. Other items up for auction include Carhartt clothing, country hams, University of Kentucky football and basketball tickets, arts and crafts items, zipline tickets, a glider rocker and a UK Final Four basketball signed by Coach John Calipari. The ECU Center for the Arts donated Kenny Rogers concert tickets. There will also be Cincinnati Reds baseball tickets and some porch/sun room furniture

Man who imprisoned wife indicted

By WHITNEY LEGGETT
CV&T News Editor

The Estill County Grand Jury returned indictment for 11 people including several for flagrant non-support and criminal possession of a forged instrument and one for unlawful imprisonment and fourth-degree assault. Eugene Rawlins, 73, of Sweet Lick Road is charged with fourth-degree assault, first-degree unlawful imprisonment and two counts of first-degree wanton endangerment. In August Rawlins was arrested after Estill County Sheriff’s deputies Russell “Doc” Morris and Karl Rifembark were called to his home for a welfare check on his wife, Ethel Rawlins. Rawlins opened his door and pointed a .22 revolver at Morris and Rifembark. Rawlins said his wife was not home but had gone to McKee. Rifembark said he could hear noises coming from the back of the house. Once inside, the deputies found Ethel who told them her husband had locked her in the room. She also said he wouldn’t let her eat while she was trapped in the room. Anthony Richardson, 31, and Shannon

Citizens question Ravenna about trailer ordinance progress

Louis Officer spoke to the Ravenna City Council about a revised version of a trailer ordinance.

By WHITNEY LEGGETT
CV&T News Editor

A trailer ordinance in the City of Ravenna has been an ongoing discussion at council meetings for several months. The council agreed in August to revise the ordinance and present a revised copy to the council at its September meeting. A revised ordinance has still yet to be read or approved by the council. Louis Officer asked the council at its meeting Monday night why no action has been taken on the issue. Problems with the ordinance began when the occupants of several trailers were cited for violations of the ordinance. When the citations were brought before the council and addressed, confusion about the wording and the exact regulations of the ordinance arose. At the August meeting of the Ravenna City Council a group of concerned citizens presented the council members a petition signed asking for a revision of the current ordinance. The council agreed and the citizens were told to expect a revised copy at the next month’s meeting. The September meeting was cancelled and the ordinance was not on the agenda at the October meeting. Ravenna Mayor Charles Crowe told Officer Councilman Jimmy Richardson had been put in charge of a revision committee. This makes Richardson responsible for discussing the changes with three citizens, who must be mobile-home owners, and two other councilmembers. The committee of six would then agree on changes to the ordinance and present them to the council for approval. “We can’t keep putting this off forever,” Officer said. “We’ve got to get it done.” Richardson agreed to begin the process of revisions and the committee will be scheduling a session this month. In other business, the council discussed the recent Ravenna Railroad Festival.

Festival Chairwoman Estine Tipton said the expenses of the festival were no more than expected and she foresees the city will break even for the festival. This is the first year the festival has been scheduled as a one-day event. Tipton said she thinks this is why so few vendors wanted to set up booths. Based on the success of this year’s event, she thinks the festival will have more to offer in coming years. “We should have more booths next year,” she said. The council also agreed to schedule Trick-or-Treat in Ravenna for Tuesday, Oct. 30, from 6 to 8 p.m., the same as Irvine. However, council placed regulations on trick-or-treating in the city. All children eight years old and younger must be supervised by an adult while trick-or-treating and no children over 12 are permitted to participate. The council said this is because of concerns about traffic and safety of the children.

up for auction among other things. Steve Garrett, chair of the auction committee, said the idea for an auction was brought before the club in 2000 or 2001 by the late Guy Hatfield. He told the Kiwanis members that other counties in the area had seen success from similar auctions. “At the time the only fundraisers were calendar sales and a pancake breakfast,” Garrett said.

“We were looking for ways to get more income to be able to touch more lives.” The club started looking into the idea of the auction and with guidance from other clubs, especially the Kiwanis Club in Richmond, the first auction happened in 2002. Since then, the auction has grown to support a large number of youth and other programs in Estill County. Last year the club was able to donate approximately $14,000 to youth programs in the county. Garrett said most people associate the club with its baseball and softball leagues in the summer because a lot of money is put into that program. The club sponsors several other programs. Proceeds from the auction will benefit the Estill County Ministerial Association, the Estill County Public Library, college scholarships, the community food bank, Relay for Life, the Elizabeth Witt Christmas party, foster kids’ Christmas, Boy Scout troops 68, 89 and 144 and GED testing fees. Garrett said the club is particularly interested in investing in the youth in the community. “Young people are the future of our community,” he said. “Not only Kiwanis but everybody needs to focus on that. We need to support our young people.” He said the youth of today will make huge decisions about our community in the future. “Whatever improvements are made to our community in the future will be the responsibility of all the young people now,” he said. The auction had several corporate sponsors including Congressman Ben Chandler, Friends of Andy Barr, Michael’s Restaurant, Davis Law, PSC, and Citizen’s Guaranty Bank. To place your bids call one of four numbers available for the auction: 723-2187, 723-2041, 723-4436 or 723-4706.

Signs like the one pictured above declaring, "Alcohol destroys families," have been popping up in yards around the county. The signs began appearing after news came that a petition forced Estill County Judge-Executive Wallace Taylor to begin the process of planning a special vote. Taylor said the election, in which registered voters will mark "yes" or "no" to alcohol sales in the county, will take place between mid-December and early-January. At press time, no signs supporting alcohol sales in the county have been spotted.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK FOR YOUR SUCCESS! Congratulations, Lillian Barnes!

Lillian Barnes arrived to Irvine Nursing and Rehab on June 19, 2012. Upon Lillian's arrival she was unable to complete her activities of daily living. Her balance was very poor and needed extensive assistance to stand, roll over and get out of bed. Through participation in therapy and a positive outlook, Lillian was able to increase her independence in order to return home. She can now walk independently without a device and can engage in her community again!

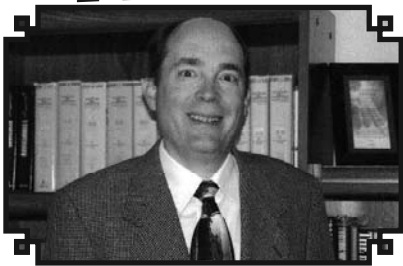

Lillian, you have made tremendous progress. The staff here at Irvine Nursing and Rehab are so very proud of you!

October is breast cancer awareness month

Information released by the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) indicates that, “aside from non-melanoma skin cancer, breast cancer is the most common cancer among women in the United States.”

The CDC also revealed that in 2008, the most recent year numbers were available, 210,203 women were diagnosed with breast cancer and 40,589 women died from breast cancer in our country.

Kentucky’s incidence rate, the number of people diagnosed with breast cancer in a given state, is somewhere between 118 and 122 women for every 100,00.

The risk of getting breast cancer is apparent for many women, especially those who have a family history of the disease.

The risk increases with age, too. Two percent of women who are currently 30 years old will develop breast cancer by the time they are 50.

For women 60 or older, the percentages skyrocket as they age.

Clearly, our nation has a problem laid before us about how to deal with this disease. As of now, there are no cures for breast cancer, just treatment if it is diagnosed early enough.

Don’t take this to mean there is no hope. Strides being made in science to advance treatment and there is continuous research into cures for this type of cancer.

As we begin a new month, it serves as a reminder on a national level of the important task we have to promote the research.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month (NBCAM).

According to the NBCAM website, the month is “dedicated to raising awareness and educating individuals about breast cancer.”

Service organizations, medical associations and even government agencies work together during October to promote awareness, education and access to services for the disease.

There are thousands of opportunities to participate in some way in programs, events and discussions about NBCAM. As always, donations to a cancer research organization are a good way to participate when you wouldn’t be able to otherwise.

In our area, I know of several walks and runs, like the Susan G. Koman Race for the Cure, that donate proceeds to breast cancer research.

These are great opportunities to exercise and support a good cause while you’re doing it. And, just because there called “races” or “runs,” doesn’t mean you have to do anything more than walk.

A good friend and I walked for the Koman Foundation in Lexington a few years ago. It was a touching experience because many survivors and women being treated for early stages of the disease actually participate, too.

These aren’t obviously the only ways to get involved. There are even opportunities in Estill County.

I know the Estill County Middle School football boosters are raising money to donate. At a recent game, the boys wore pink socks to show their support, raise money and promote awareness.

Besides donating and participating in events, a huge aspect of NBCAM is promoting awareness of screening and prevention.

Mammograms are the best way screen for cancer in the breast. Regular screenings and exams usually lead to early diagnoses. But, at-home screening is important, too.

Doctors say it’s essential to check oneself for any signs of potential cancer in the breast. Any sudden changes or lumps are signs that you may need a professional exam.

In terms of prevention, the CDC recommends controlling weight, getting plenty of exercise, limiting alcohol and being aware of any family history of the disease.

With a little research it’s easy to find a number of credible organizations that offer more information about NBCAM and how we can be involved. Usually these websites will offer links to other organizations.

If what I’ve shared here isn’t enough to get your motors moving in the right direction this month, spend a little time doing research of your own and see if participating in an event or donating to the cause is the right move for you.

October isn’t just about breast cancer awareness.

It means it’s time for the leaves to start turning and the wind to get a little colder. Fall is here.

I got my pumpkins (a giant one for me and a tiny one for my boyfriend) to carve. I’ve been decorating my house and getting all ready for the season and I’m excited to start seeing the Halloween decorations around town.

The scarecrow decorating contest will be judged Friday and we’ll have the results in the paper next week.

If you didn’t get to participate in that, it’s not too late. We still have our decorating contest here at the CV&T.

As always, if you have questions, suggestions, comments or ideas, don’t hesitate to share them with me.

Until then, "Happy Fall Y'all!"

Celebrating community, country style

Close-knit communities are everywhere, and they’re not always found in small towns or big cities. Sometimes they’re found way out in the “middle of nowhere.”

The truth is, way out in the middle of nowhere is usually somewhere important to somebody. Take the old Rosses’ Creek one room school, for example. More than 200 people gathered last Saturday at the 14th annual Rosses Creek school reunion to revisit their childhood stomping grounds.

It’s quite a drive to get there—you drive out of South Irvine and meander up the river on Hwy 851, bear right and continue on through the Doe Creek area. Drive up, and on up, a steep winding hill until you reach the top of Barnes Mountain.

Travel out the ridge and take your time, time to enjoy the panoramic view of mountain ridges spread out on either side of the road with hills rolling away as far as the eye can see. The sight rivals anything you’ll see in the Red River Gorge.

When you reach the end of the Barnes Mountain ridge, you’ll find yourself at an intersection. Take a hard left, staying on 851. Soon you’ll be driving down the backside of that steep hill you just pulled.

There’s a hairpin curve or two on that hill, and you’ll have a light bulb moment when you realize why Estill County schools have so many snow days when roads are clear in town.

At the bottom of the hill, look for a tiny clapboard-sided structure painted white with a red door. On a typical day, it would be easy to drive right past the one room school because it’s small, and it’s tucked away at the base of a hill to your far right. You could find yourself all the way to Lock 13 before you know it.

But on reunion day, you can’t miss it. For one thing, there are dozens of cars parked in the grassy field in front of the school. For another, there is a big red inflatable set up, with kids jumping around in it like a bunch of grasshoppers.

Just beyond the inflatable are his’ and hers’ outhouses, reminiscent of the good old days when all rural schools and churches had them out back.

Someone has set up a hand washing station in front of the outhouses, but instead of a pail of water carried from a spring or drawn from a well and a cake of lye soap to wash with, there is a wash basin, some plastic gallon jugs of water, soap, hand sanitizer and paper towels.

Someone has obviously put a lot of thought into putting this event together. Two of the main “someones” doing the planning are Bill and Sandy McKinney. They go to a whole lot of trouble to make everyone feel welcome but seem to truly enjoy doing it.

Bill and Sandy, along with the help of a few dedicated others, have spent the past couple of weeks mowing off fields, decorating the school yard and making tobacco stick crafts to give away in a drawing. They’ve called and reserved entertainment, and they’ve been busy cooking.

Approaching the school, you’ll note long rows of tables slowly being loaded with bowls and platters of food as people trickle in and set their offerings down. There’s a dessert table, a soup bean and cornbread table, and several tables to hold fried chicken, salads, vegetables and all kinds of sides.

Then there’s the ham-slicing station. I stop to snap a picture of the men patiently slicing meat to feed a multitude, and one of them offers me a bite of ham, still steaming, from a serving fork. Their homemade smoker looks big enough to roast a moose.

I, of course, am more than willing to sample, and I can tell you right now the ham was delicious. A few hours later, there will barely be enough left over to season a pot of beans.

Food is always a big attraction at any kind of gathering but obviously not the only one. Several large families are represented here—the McKinneys, Newmans, and Harrises, to name a few. They grew up in the surrounding hills and hollers, and they come eager to share memories of their school days at Rosses Creek.

For the next couple of hours, people sit around and eat good food, listen to music and share memories while they reconnect with family, friends and neighbors. Some wander off to pitch a game of horse shoes or play a game of cornhole.

I listen in as a couple of classmates laugh about pranks they used to pull on one another. I hear others tell how they had to walk four miles to get to school. One man shared how he and his siblings put in a boat and crossed the river then walked the rest of the way to school, every school day morning and evening.

I didn’t hear any gripes about how hard times were, and not one person complained how they hated their hard life.

From what I can see, and I know I haven’t seen it all, the majority of those people grew up to be strong, honest and capable individuals. Hard work was no strange concept to them, and many went out into the world with eighth grade educations from Rosses Creek and did quite well for themselves.

At last year’s gathering, I met Vina Calmes Chapman, who once lived at Rosses Creek and taught school there. I also met her peppermint chiffon cake, and was delighted to get reacquainted with both of them this year.

Vina, almost 90 now, is as gracious and kind an individual as you’ll ever meet. “I have such good memories of this place,” she smiles. Former students wait in line to speak to her before she heads back to her home in Ohio.

Vina shares bits of wisdom as effortlessly as her recollections, clearly still a teacher at heart.

“You have to love it to be a good teacher,” she says. By “it,” I think she means you have to love the students. It’s clear that she did and still does.

“I have found that people are full of assumptions,” she says. “We sometimes assume people know less than they do, or we assume people know more than they do. The secret is to find the balance.”

Now think about that a minute. Isn’t that a truth that can be applied to almost any career, relationship or foreign policy?

It would be easy to assume that everyone who attended Rosses Creek school is old as the proverbial hills, but some of them aren’t much older than I.

In fact, during the fifties and sixties when many Estill County students were being bussed to central public school locations like South Irvine and Hargett, transportation was not yet available to the remotest areas of the county.

I couldn’t tell that anyone there felt deprived by that lack, though.

Sometimes the nether regions of our county get a bad rap. Creekers and town-dwellers might pick up an assumption or two about the wild and unruly people on the mountains.

I’ll have to say I’ve never met a more hospitable and friendly group of people than those who warmly welcomed us to the Rosses Creek school reunion.

It was good to visit with them again, and I enjoyed very much the look at what one-room school communities used to be—and still are, on occasion.

EDA inducts 4 into Hall of Honor

Rhoda Ann Winn Hlgginbotham

Rhoda Ann Winn Higginbotham was born Dec. 29, 1931 to John and Eunice (Witt) Winn.

She remembers going to the little church at Wisemantown and her grandmother Anna Miller Witt who taught her the Bible lessons in her Sunday School class.

She had a love for music even as a child and began taking lessons from her great-aunt, Elizabeth Powell, as a young girl.

Eventually, she took lessons from Brown E. Telford and later at the University of Kentucky from Professor Nathaniel Patch.

Rhoda attended school in the Irvine Public Schools. She played in the band and participated in the glee club there under her uncle, Thomas Bonny.

Her mother was the biology and chemistry teacher at Irvine High School. Service Motor Company, a dealership for Dodge and Plymouth automobiles was run by her father, John Winn, and the building still stands today on Broadway in Irvine.

Following graduation from Irvine High School in 1949, Rhoda attended UK and majored in music focusing primarily on piano and music education.

In 1953 she began her teaching career with Fayette County Schools. She then taught in Estill County and Clark County, at the Model Laboratory School at Eastern Kentucky University and finished her career in Estill County.

She was recognized throughout the state for her research and expertise regarding the boy's changing voice. That research is still included in the EKU library.

She was also known for the many wonderful music plays and programs she produced with her students.

In those plays and programs most of the music was composed by the student, scenery was created by Rhoda and the students and most of the costumes were designed and created by Rhoda.

She loved her students and her students loved her. In 1994, Rhoda received the Kentucky Music Educators Distinguished Service Award. Many of her students have become successful adults and several have made their career as musicians and/or music teachers.

The church in Wisemantown was also an important part of her life. Rhoda was the primary musician at the church for more than 50 years.

She played the organ and piano all her adult life.

Her commitment to God is evidenced as she planned her schedule around church attendance each week to teach Sunday School and play for the worship service.

Other church members have difficulty recalling any time that she was not in church. She was faithful in organizing summer Bible School.

Rhoda is still remembered for the music she provided and taught to the children and the congregation.

Her Christmas pageants remain the talk of all who ever saw or participated in them. She and her son-in-law, Mike Moreland, led the process of selecting and having the beautiful stained-glass windows installed that still make the Wisemantown Methodist Church a beautiful place. Blanche Hawkins also helped select the windows.

Rhoda was an excellent artist, antique dealer and consultant and gardener among her many other talents.

She married Bill Higginbotham in 1955 and they had two children, Ann Winn Higginbotham Moreland and Gene Higginbotham.

Rhoda passed away Monday, March 22, 2012, after a long illness. She lives on in the cherished memories of her family, friends and former students.

The community of Estill County is all the better for her as a treasured citizen.

Wilma McIntosh Wise

Wilma McIntosh Wise is a life-long resident of Estill County. She was the eighth of nine children born to Floyd and Mary Proffitt McIntosh who were married in 1924.

She spent a happy childhood in the Tipton Ridge/Furnace Junction area where her father was the owner of a grocery store.

"It helped to feed all those kids," Wilma likes to joke.

She started elementary school at Gum Spring School and quickly became a favorite of her teacher, Ms. Clayberta Powell Gamble.

Wilma was an excellent student who made straight As but was frequently told she talked too much. In eighth grade she came to town and started middle school at Estill County Schools. Before she graduated, Wilma left school to marry her childhood sweetheart, Wayne Wise, in 1965.

She and Wayne have two children: a daughter, Tammy Cole, and a son, Terry Wise. Wilma is a proud grandmother to three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Wilma decided to finish her schooling and worked hard to get her GED, which she accomplished in 1972. In 1973 she started her tenure at Comp Care. Wilma was mentored and trained by Pat Alexander and Esther Meade, who took her under their wings and helped establish her in her position at Comp Care. Wilma's time at Comp Care is why she was nominated for the Hall of Honor.

She spent 27 years assisting Estill County Citizens with intellectual and developmental disabilities. At one time she was in charge of over 30 different bank accounts, making sure each client knew how much money was available to each of them. Wilma, Pat and Esther were responsible for starting the first daily treatment program for Estill Countians with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

"We were told our responsibility was to keep our clients out of the hospital, so that's what we did," Wilma said.

She made sure each client had decent living conditions and access to the proper mental and physical healthcare. She drove clients to doctor's appointments and supervised a team of Occupational Therapy students from Eastern Kentucky University. Wilma's philosophy for her career of service to other was simple but true: Be truthful. Be open and honesty with people and you can do a world of good for them.

As well as being a champion for the often overlooked mentally challenged members of our society, Wilma served on several boards.

She served on both the Head Start Advisory Board and the MepCo Home Health Board for over 20 years. She served on the Kentucky River Foothills board in its early days as well.

Wilma, along with Ralph McClanahan, Dr. Ross Brown, Mike Rogers and Tom Whitaker, worked extremely hard to start an ambulance service in the county and were the founding members of the Ambulance Board that developed into our first-class EMS team that Estill County is privileged to have today. She served on the Ambulance Board for over 10 years. She also served on the Interagency Board for five years.

After retiring from Comp Care in 2000, Wilma went to worked with her husband, Wayne, at their furniture store, Wise Place, on Cow Creek until 2010.

She now enjoys gardening, cooking and reading. She also loves to sew and is known for making beautiful pillows for others after a death in the family.

Wilma is a member of the Irvine Free Methodist Church and loves to work puzzles at the Food Court three days a week with a group of friends nicknamed the "Dixie Bell Gang."

Most of all, Wilma wants to stress to others who might have quit school before graduation to seek out opportunities to get their GED.

"You can't give up on you or your education," Wilma said. "You can make the world better if you don't give up."

Edward Everett Puckett

Edward Everett Puckett was born Aug. 21, 1943 on Tipton Ridge in Estill County.

He was the seventh of eight children born to John and Zella (Flynn) Puckett.

Ed's elementary school years were spent at Mt. Carmel School on Furnace Junction Road near the Mt. Carmel Christian Church. The school was commonly known as the Tipton Ridge School.

In 1961Ed graduated from Estill County High School, located in the now Central Office building.

Except for a very short time spent in Ohio working, Ed lived in Estill County all his life.

Ed married Kathleen Stone, the daughter of Lawrence Stone, Aug. 24, 1968. Ed and Kathy had one daughter, Carol Lynn Puckett, who married Chris Dause, and had two grandsons, Lucas and Josh, who fondly referred to their grandfather as "Big Daddy."

Ed was a retired employee of the Department of Transportation for the State of Kentucky. He served with the Kentucky National Guard, was a member of the Irvine Free Methodist Church, the Garden Thyme Herb Club and staunch supporter of the Estill County football and basketball programs, attending all of the games both home and away. Ed was also a devoted member of the Estill County Historical and Genealogical Society.

Although Ed had many interests, the pursuit of history in Estill County and its people seemed to be the forefront.

Over the years Ed travelled hundreds of miles and spent an untold number of hours in county courthouses, libraries, state archives and historical societies all over Kentucky and other states searching for Estill County history and genealogy.

Ed's mind soaked up information like a sponge when it came to Estill County families. It didn't seem to matter what family name was mentioned, Ed always knew something about that family's history.

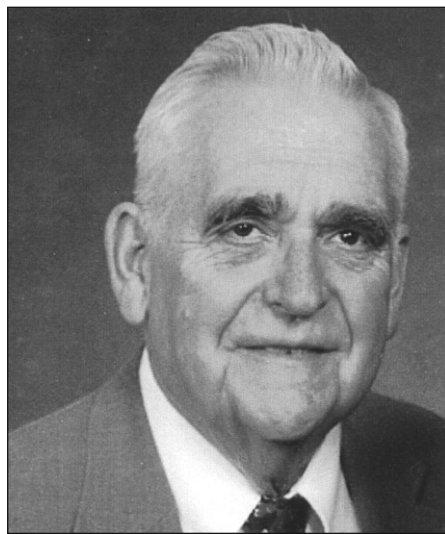

Through his research, Ed helped many people complete or prove their family's lines. The vast amount of the historical and genealogical research done by Ed, with Kathy's help on many occasions, has resulted in finding records and stories that may have remained hidden. The ECHGS, utilizing Ed's research material, has published over 50 books.

After a long illness, Edward Everett Puckett died quietly at home on Aug. 11, 2010, at the age of 66. It has often been said when an older person dies, "a small library is lost," and that is certainly true of Ed.

He was a devoted historian and genealogist whose contributions to his community will continue to be long lasting and far reaching for generations to come.

Ed is sadly missed by all who knew and loved him.

W.T. "Tom" Williams

W.T. "Tom" Williams is a life-long resident of Estill County.

He is the son of Columbus and Virgil (Eades) Williams. He has one sister, Kathlene Williams Murrell, and one brother, Billy Williams. Tom is a graduate of Irvine High School and is a proud Golden Eagle.

Tom has a long history of public service with 17 years as the mayor of Irvine, 26 years as a city councilman and 22 years as a Kentucky National Guardsman. Tom has served on the Housing Authority Board, the Bluegrass Area Development Boards, he was a Transportation Committee member and, until this year, a member of the Estill Development Alliance board.

Tom has over 43 years of service to the community of Estill County and it's been said the words, "I can't," do not exist in his vocabulary.

His friends will gladly tell you he has a heart the size of Texas.

While Tom was mayor of Irvine a new city hall and police station were built in 2006, The helipad was establish on city property in 1991 linking Irvine with medical facilities in Lexington.

Of the many grants Estill County received while Tom was mayor, the new city parking lot was built and Renaissance Apartments brought much needed housing to downtown Irvine.

Under Tom's leadership, the city donated land for the community fire department as well as the EMS building. Tom was instrumental in establishing a 911 service in Estill County and during his tenure, the Salem Curve and Highway 89 were both realigned and River Drive was widened to three lanes. 24-hour fire protection was also established during Tom's tenure as mayor.

An important part of serving your community is helping your fellow citizens and Rhonda Gould mentioned how Tom played an important role in the growth and success of all those who have served with him over the years.

He has affected not just those elected to serve on the city council but young men and women called city employees. Tom gave many an opportunity to reach goals they never thought possible.

Even if it was just a stranger passing through, he still thought to give that individual a chance and if need be, even a second chance would be given. To put it bluntly, Tom never gave up on his fellow citizens and always believed they could contribute to the common good if given a shot.

Another interesting fact is that in 17 years of service as mayor, Toms was only absent six times. That is an incredible track record.

Tom and his wife, Nelle, have three children: two sons, Kevin and Chad, and one daughter, Cecelia Anne. They are the proud grandparents to one grandson, Thomas Forehand. Tom has a beloved dog, Traveler, and feeds all the neighborhood cats every day.

There is an urgency to pray...an alarm is sounding off in the churches around this country. He that hath an ear let him hear what the spirit is saying, to the churches.

Saturday, Oct. 13, at 1 p.m., we will be meeting at the Estill County Court House for prayer. This next election will pivot our nation and in turn, our county. It is time that we, as Christians and concerned citizens, come together in prayer as intercessors for our leaders, our families, our loved ones who are bound in our country and our county. We need revival!

We as the body of Christ need to tear down denominational walls and put aside our differences and come together as children of God to stand in the gap for others. And right now there are so many that need this from us.

Another issue is the petition for alcohol sales to be allowed in our county that will be voted on in the very near future. It's been said that alcohol sales would bring revenue to the county and more businesses which would provide more money to be used for more officers.

The Kentucky State Police statistics say that, in Calloway County for example, which went wet in the year 2000, their crime has skyrocketed. An increase of 83 percent in arrests and a 123 percent increase in DUI's, not to mention other related fatalities or abused children.

Habakkuk 2:15 says, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunken also..." In Galatians 5 it also says that drunkenness shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

Chapter 4

"Unbelievable!"
 "Awesome!"
 "Incredible!"
 Everyone cheered, thrilled about completing our first zip-line ride, although I was still scared about having to make a confession.
 "Uh, Miss Sam, I have something to tell you."
 "What's wrong, fella?" Sam asked, as everyone looked frightened.
 "You know when I was zipping really fast?"
 "Yes," Sam answered.
 "Well, I, uh, don't know how to tell you, uh..."
 "Spit it out, Woody."
 "I lost two apples, one grapefruit and a bowl of oatmeal!"
 Everyone breathed a sigh of relief and then laughed.
 "You aren't the first to lose their cookies, Woody, and you won't be the last," Sam said, rubbing my head.
 Dad was right-- confession was good for the soul.
 "OK, folks, let's eat lunch," Sam suggested.
 We found a beautiful place in the gorge to eat our sack lunch. Mom packed turkey sandwiches on whole wheat bread with lettuce and tomato for each of us. Mom let us choose our own sides.
 "Those pineapple slices look yummy, Chloe," I said as my sister pulled out her side items.
 "Thanks! I brought pineapple, carrots and yogurt," she said. "What healthy sides did you pack, Woody?"
 "A few fruits and vegetables," I answered, pulling out my watermelon jawbreakers and fried green tomatoes.
 Everyone froze. I wish I'd packed enough for everyone.
 "Hold it, junk-food junkie," Sam ordered.

"I hardly consider watermelon jawbreakers a fruit. And the nutritional advantages of tomatoes were lost when they were fried. Pass it over, puppy."
 Obeying, I handed over my sides, hoping Chloe would share her fruit slices so I'd have something to go with my sandwich.
 "Remember how we talk about eating a well-balanced diet of fruits, vegetables, dairy, meats and grains?" Dad asked.
 "He's right," Sam said. "Studies prove that people who maintain a healthy weight stay well and live longer than those who are overweight. Diet and exercise also reduce our risk of diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and some cancers."

 "Here, eat this," Sam said, handing us each a piece of a fruit I'd never seen. It was the size of an orange but the color was a deep ruby red.
 "Thanks, but I'll pass," I said, turning up my nose.
 "To develop healthier eating habits, you must expand your taste buds," Sam said, echoing what our parents told us frequently. My parents looked at me as if to say, "I told you so!"

"During boot camp you will try at least one new healthy food each day. You don't have to like everything," Sam said, "but you do have to eat at least three bites. The fruit I've just given you is a pomegranate. It's different from other fruits because the tastiest part is the seeds."
 We cut open the ripe fruit and dug out the crimson seeds. I held them in my paw, smelled them and then popped one in my mouth. My mouth automatically puckered up at the tart fruit.
 "Wow! These taste like a cross between Nerds and SweetTarts," I said with fish lips.
 "And to think you almost missed out because you were a scaredy-cat," Sam said, teasing.
 "OK, folks, kitchen's closed," Sam said as she rose from the table.
 "Don't forget to pick up the trash, pups," Mom said, gathering up garbage. There was trash that wasn't ours, but we picked it up anyway. Mom and Dad have always taught us that if everyone does what needs to be done, life runs more smoothly. After the trash was in the cans, Mom retrieved and read Rx 2 from Doc Albert.
 Turn right onto Highway 11 and follow the highway until you reach Highway 15. Turn right on Highway 15 and drive for about 10 miles to Tunnel Ridge Road. Another trainer named Pete will meet you at that intersection and give you further instructions.
 "I hate to leave you pups, but my work is done," Sam said as she hugged us. "You need to get going. Pete's waiting. And Woody, so you know, Pete's a guy," Sam said, winking again.
 We thanked Sam and told her we hoped to see her again.
 "What will Pete have us do?" Chloe asked.
 "It's top secret," Sam answered.
 "Just one little hint?" Chloe asked.
 With that, Sam pretended that she had locked her lips and thrown away the key.

Black walnuts are tough nuts to crack

For those who frequently take walks out in the countryside, one of the most familiar signs of fall is that of black walnuts littering the ground.

Encased in a tough green hull that eventually turns yellow, the nuts have a sharp pine-like scent that smells like fall too.

Black walnut trees grow wild in Kentucky and are commonly found near the edge of woods and creeks and in fence lines. There's a walnut tree at the corner of our yard, and I sometimes I see squirrels carrying nuts as they run out the plank fence toward the barn. I'm guessing they're creating a stash for the winter.

Black walnuts are time-consuming to harvest. Maybe not so much for squirrels, but they can be a real challenge just to get out of the green hull, especially if you try to harvest them too soon. It's a good idea to let that hull soften up some before you try to roll it off.

Many people gather walnuts off the ground by the bucketful, then pour them out in their driveway so they run over them as they come and go, which is a fairly easy way to get the hull off.

You can roll them around on the ground one at time with your shoe, but that's a whole lot of trouble.

Be sure to wear gloves when you pick up hulled walnuts, because they're covered in dark juices that will stain your hands badly.

I can remember not taking the time to put on gloves when hulling black walnuts as a kid, then having to go to school with brown hands. That was pretty embarrassing. I looked like I'd been overhauling a motor or something.

Anyway, once the hulls are removed, spread the walnuts out on newspapers or a screen or hang them in mesh bags like the ones

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T Staff Writer

onions come in so they'll dry. The nutmeats will come out a little easier, and they'll taste better after they've cured for several weeks.

Cracking black walnuts shells is even more of a challenge than busting the hull. We usually crack them with a hammer, but I tried using a vise the other day. I put the pointy ends of the nut against the vise, and when I tightened it, the nut cracked cleanly down the middle.

I did have to use a hammer to get the rest of the nutmeats out. I've read that you can finish cutting them out with wire cutters, but I haven't tried that yet.

Black walnuts take a lot of time to harvest, but that's probably why they taste so good. Their flavor is intense, and it doesn't take many. Nothing enhances a pan of chocolate fudge or a chocolate cake quite like a handful of black walnuts.

I did a recipe search on allrecipes.com, looking for something different to do with them, and I think I'll try this recipe. The ingredients are simple, but sometimes that's all it takes to create something yummy.

Favorite Black Walnut Cookies

1 cup butter, softened
1 cup white sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
3 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped black walnuts

In a large bowl, cream butter, white sugar, and brown sugar. Add eggs and beat until smooth. Sift together flour, baking soda, and salt. Stir dry ingredients into the creamed mixture until well blended. Stir in walnuts last. Shape dough into logs about 2 inches in diameter, wrap them in wax paper, and refrigerate until firm.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Slice dough logs into 1/2 inch slices, and place on baking sheet. Bake in preheated oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Yield: about 4 dozen cookies.

1 Peter 5:6-7

6 Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

7 Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.

Pride is a difficult, thorny root that slowly takes hold in your heart. It's deceptive and is difficult to perceive let alone conceive its presence in our lives. Do you trust that the Lord will honor you at the right time? Failure to trust that God will honor you will lead you to boast to yourself and others about your greatness. As you walk through your day, keep an eye out for any roots that may trip you up.

National Science Day

This week 4-H will be working with 6th grade students on the National Science Day project ECObots and kindergarten students on living healthy lives. Members of the District 4 Teen Council will be going to Lexington to work with other teens from across the Bluegrass Region. Also, don't forget 4-H is having a Photo Contest. Entry fee is $5 for each photo entered. No limit to how many you may enter. The last day to enter is Friday, Oct. 5. The top 12 photos will be placed in a 2013 Estill County 4-H Calendar and the winners will receive a free copy of the calendar. The calendars will go on sale in October for $10 each. Educational programs of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Trick-or-Treat Under the Big Top

The circus is coming to town; but not quite what you might expect. It's time for the annual Trick-or-Treat Trot. The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) of Estill County High School are once again organizing the event; and they have some new twists and turns in store. Some of the highlights are as follows:

- This year we will be using a Circus theme.
- The event will take place in town. It will run along Broadway from Court Street to Estill Avenue. Trick-or-Treaters will enter from Estill Avenue. Trick-or-treating will take place 6 - 8 p.m. for children 12 and below.
- Booth spots are open to businesses, churches, clubs and organizations. However, this year individuals are also invited to reserve a spot.
- Spots are free, but you must preregister using the registration form.
- More information is available by calling the High School at 723-3537, asking to speak with Connie Witt or McKenna Clowers or email connie.witt@estill.kyschools.us or mckenna_clowers@live.com.
- Non-perishable food donations will be collected by FBLA member Andrew Witt to benefit local food banks.

Boy Scout Round Up!

Troop 144 would like to invite any boy the age of 10 1/2 or older to come check out our troop. We meet every Monday night at the Estill County Court House at 6:30 p.m. If you like getting outdoors, going camping, hiking, and learning outdoor skills, then we have a great program for you. You can check us out on facebook, or check out our website at irvinetroop144@scoutlander.com feel free to contact our troop via email or facebook for more information.

The other thing is a campout/caving trip we had on Sepi. 15 and 16. We participated in a wild caving adventure sponsored by Boy Scouts of America and hosted by The Great Salt Petre Mine Association located in Rockcastle County. There were over 250 Scouts and Leaders registered for the event. There were professional cavers/guides to lead each group into and out of the caves. Some guides traveled here from Ohio just to help for the event. The Scouts learned about the wildlife that live in the caves, and learned how fragile the eco system is inside of a cave. Scouts also performed a service project while at the campout. Overall, everyone had a great time. We look forward to our next outing which may be going to Cumberland Gap during fall Break.

Engineers place first in class at Corbin competition

The Estill County Marching Engineers placed first in their class at a competition in Corbin last week. The band was also awarded Best Color Guard, Best Percussion and Best Pit Crew. Thirteen bands competed at the competition. The Engineers placed fourth overall. Director Jason Bowles said despite the success so far, the band needs some more work. "For this late in the season, we are still lacking consistency," he said. "Even though the results are impressive, we still have a way to go." He said competition in the Engineer's class is tough and the members will need to "take it to another level," before regionals.

ENCOURAGING WORD: A FORMULA FOR FACING LIFE

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

Someone with a keen sense of humor or an ability to observe has been quoted as saying, “Life is so daily.”

Therefore, a question one faces almost on a daily basis is:

How do I face life when it has so many ups and downs, turns and twists, and ins and outs? There is a good answer to this question. It is found in a formula for facing life that is, indeed, ancient in origin. It can be traced back to the late winter or early spring of 56 AD when Nero, whose brutal behavior made his name a byword, was Emperor of the Roman Empire.

It is a fact.

In life, bad things happen regularly, but we are not to attempt to “get even” by overcoming one bad thing with another bad thing. Two wrongs, under any combination of conditions, do not make a right.

In all situations and under all circumstances, forget what others may do; they, not you, are responsible for their actions.

Your responsibility is simple:

At all times, just be careful to do what is right. It may not be easy, but it may be possible. Let peaceful living begin with you. Therefore, as far as it depends upon you, live in peace with everyone around you.

Benjamin Franklin, the common-sense philosopher of the eighteenth century, has been quoted as saying, “’Tis more noble to forgive and more manly to despise, than to revenge an injury.”

Therefore, do not seek revenge, but leave that to the One who is able to handle it.

There is evil in the world, and it is a powerful force with which one has to contend. But good is also present, and it is a greater and more powerful force. At all times and under all conditions, overcome evil with good.

This formula for life has been tested by time and proven in the crucible of life; therefore it is reliable and will lead to triumphant living.

NOTICE OF SALE

By virtue of Judgment and Order of Sale by the Estill Circuit Court in the above cause, I will, on Thursday, October 4, 2012 at the hour of 9:30 a.m., at the Courthouse door in Irvine, Estill County, Kentucky, offer the respective interests of the above parties in the following described properties for sale at public auction, to-wit:
Property Address: 2035 Doe Creek Road, Irvine, Kentucky 40336

All that certain parcel of land situated in the City of Irvine, County of Estill and State of Kentucky bounded and described as follows:
Beginning at a stone in the northern side of Doe Creek Road; thence with said Road 153 feet west to Alex Stamper's roadway; thence with Alex Stamper's road a northern direction 138 feet to a stone; thence in an eastern direction 87 feet to a stone; thence in a southerly direction 21 feet to a stone; thence in an eastern direction 27 feet to the northern end of a stone wall; thence with the stone wall a southern direction 114 feet to the beginning, containing 1 acre, more or less.
There is excepted from the above-described real property a fifty (50) foot by fifty (50) foot square located at the northwest corner of said described property, one side of property joining the Alex Stamper Road.
Being the same property conveyed by James W. Miller and Monica Miller, husband and wife, to Leroy White and Iris White, husband and wife by deed dated June 13, 2003 and recorded on June 20, 2003 in Deed Book 250, Page 71 in the Office of the Estill County Clerk.
Subject to any and all applicable restrictive convents, existing easements, utility easement, right-of-way, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any. Also regulation that might apply thru planning & zoning.
The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions:
1.The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following:
a. current year (2012) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price;
b. easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record;
c. any current assessments for public improvements levied against the property; and
d. any matters which would be disclosed by an accurate survey or inspection of the property.

2. The sale shall be made to the highest and best bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of one-third (1/3rd) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. Any purchaser, other than the Plaintiff, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid, and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the thirty (30) day period.

3. The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in the amount whichever is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability there under, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost.

4. In the event the Plaintiff becomes the purchaser of the real estate at the Master Commissioner's sale, and it the Plaintiff's bid if less that its lien adjudged herein, Plaintiff may comply with the terms of sale by taking credit upon this Judgment without making the cash deposit or execution the sale bond as provided for in this Judgment.

That's how many Kentuckians, on average, read each copy of a newspaper.
You see, one reads it, then passes it on.
Then another reads it and passes it on.
And so forth.
So if you're trying to reach Kentuckians, advertise in the newspaper.
Pass it on.

McCoy to meet artist who recorded his song

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T Staff Writer

Friday night, Roy McCoy will finally get to meet in person a couple of pals he's been co-writing songs with for the past few years.

Fay Ann Couture, from Wild Horse Plains, Mont., is a country music singer, and Ivan Lackey, from Abilene, Texas, is her manager and an Elvis impersonator.

The trio met online on a radio chat room and became good friends. They decided to write a song together when Couture asked Roy where he lives. He replied, "Where the bluegrass kisses the mountains," and that became the catalyst for the song, "My Kentucky," which is on Couture's debut solo album, "Born to be a Cowgirl."

Couture and Lackey plan to swing by Irvine this Friday to meet Roy on their way to a show in Ohio. The friends will be performing beside King Tut Video, which is owned by Roy's daughter, Darlene, and her husband, Paul Tuttle.

"I've always loved music," Roy says, particularly "country music and some blues." Although he's been listening to music for a long time, Roy says he's only been writing songs for about the past decade.

Roy also wrote a song called "Back from Iraq" about a soldier who knows he might get called back to the war at any time. He entered a song-writing contest with it and won six awards.

Roy himself spent some time in the Army, serving in Korea, Texas and Germany. In fact, his time in Germany coincided with that of Elvis Presley's. He says he left Germany shortly after Elvis arrived and never met him personally, but he remembers seeing him "out in the field."

And yes, Roy is a real McCoy. Randolph McCoy, of the infamous Hatfield and McCoy feud, is his great-great uncle.

Roy lives at Mountain Crest Drive and has made his home in Estill County on and off for the past 40 years. Originally from West Virginia, he was raised mostly in Ohio. He eventually met and married an Estill County woman, Mildred Barnes, now deceased.

Roy and Mildred had three children who all call Irvine their hometown. They are Danny McCoy, Darlene Tuttle and Gina Dunaway. He has five grandchildren and five great grandchildren, with another on the way. He is a retired employee of the Leggett and Platt Company.

Roy's daughter, Darlene, invites the public to come out and hear Couture and Lackey perform songs they wrote with her dad. The fun begins at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 5. Desist, a rock band, will perform at 7 p.m.
